2. Scope

3. Australian Harness Racing Rules (AHRR)

The AHRR provides the necessary powers for Stewards to order a horse to be examined in any manner in which they deem appropriate.

AHRR 15(1)(k) states:

15(1) Stewards are empowered –

(k) to inspect, examine or test in such manner as they consider appropriate any person, horse, racetrack, stable, stud, artificial breeding station or other place, item, document, equipment, vehicle, or substance.

4. VETERINARY EXAMINATIONS

1.1 When are examinations conducted?

The following horses should be examined by the official on-course veterinarian prior to competing:

- Horses which have attained an age of twelve (12) years of age or older;
- Horses which have started in two hundred (200) or more races;
- Horses which have not raced for twelve (12) months or longer;
- Horses which raced the day prior.

The following horses should be examined after competing:

- Horses who have raced more than once at a race meeting;
- Horses which have not raced for twelve (12) months or longer;
- Horses which are engaged to race the day immediately following.

1.2 Examination Type

The type of examination to be conducted is at the sole discretion of the officiating veterinarian. The HRV Stewards will be guided by the advice provided by the official on-course veterinarian as to the suitability of a horse to fulfil any immediate racing engagement.

1.3 Licensed Participant Requirements

A licensed person and/or registered owner shall not hinder or fail to assist the official on-course veterinarian in their examination of a horse.
